OUR STORY

Browne Street, now Rosebank Road, was carved in to create a path for the Avondale railway station which was built in the 1880's. The only access to Avondale in those days was by train. It was a place of welcome and farewell, joy and sadness, hope and disappointment.

The station was where people went to meet or send off family, friends and lovers. The Avondale Station served as a vibrant hub of community life and a gateway to the outside world.

Welcome back to Browne St, your journey resumes here.
